

EXHIBIT 9

Basic Information

Complete this screen to limit your claim only if this work is based on or incorporates preexisting material and is therefore either a “derivative work” or a “compilation.” Preexisting material should be excluded from the claim to copyright. Material is preexisting if it has been previously registered, previously published, is in the public domain, or is not owned by this claimant. The registration in a derivative work or compilation extends only to the new material that has been added.

A “derivative work” is a work that is based on or incorporates one or more preexisting works. Examples of derivative works include translations, fictionalizations, abridgments, musical arrangements, screenplays based on preexisting novels, reproductions of paintings, or any other form in which a work may be recast, transformed, or adapted. Derivative works also include works consisting of editorial revisions, annotations, or other modifications, if these changes, as a whole, represent an original work of authorship.

A “compilation” is a work formed by the collection and assembling of preexisting materials or of data that are selected, coordinated, or arranged in such a way that the resulting work as a whole constitutes an original work of authorship.

The right to make a derivative work (or new version) is one of the exclusive rights of a copyright owner. Copyright protection does not extend to any part of a work in which someone else’s copyrighted material has been used unlawfully.

Material Excluded

Check the appropriate box(es) to exclude any preexisting material that this work is based on or incorporates, such as previously registered material, previously published material, material in the public domain, and material not owned by this claimant. You may use the Other space to specifically identify a preexisting work or to give a more detailed description of the material excluded from this claim. (See examples of how to fill out the Material Excluded and Material Included sections).

Previous Registration

Complete this space if this work or another version of it has been previously registered. If a certificate of registration has been issued, give the previous registration number and year in the space provided. If there have been multiple registrations, give information regarding the two most recent registrations. If the previous registration has not been completed, state “pending” in the space for the registration number.

DO NOT give preregistration information here (numbers beginning with PRE). Preregistration information should be given in the Publication/Completion area of the application.

New Material Included

Check the appropriate box(es) to identify all new or revised material being claimed in this registration. You may use the Other space to give a more specific description of the new material created by the author(s). In the preceding Author section, be sure you have named the author(s) of all the material checked or described below. This material must also be checked or described in the Author section. (See examples of how to fill out the Material Excluded and Material Included sections).
